

(robustly) standardized differences from the median